Confrontational Christianity addresses many of those issues facing Christians in today's world. The book looks at the various types of Christians, from those who are passive to those who strap on their "whole armor of God," and come out swinging their two edged swords, the Bible. The fact that the infamous "separation of church and state" is not law and that courts and those who file suits using this as the basis of their suits has no legal bearing on how decisions concerning public display of crosses, Christian flags, Ten Commandment monuments, or anything associated with Christmas do in no way violate the Constitution of the United States of America. In addition, that Christians opposing abortion, same sex marriage, and/or the gay and lesbian lifestyle is not a hate crime. The book gets into the weeds of how Christians should deal with these threats to our freedoms and how we should not. The many attacks on our Christian youth, what they are, and especially how they can and should deal with them today. Avoidance and preventing those temptations put before our youth, plus what measures they can do themselves to keep from falling into the sinful acts. Finally you will learn how Christians can say "no" to political, religious, and other types of threats sent our way by Satan and his demons. The persecution of the Christians is here, so we need to know how to address them, avoid them, and most of all confront them according to God's Word.
