Five Doctor Who adventures starring Patrick Troughton as the Second Doctor – plus extra bonus material. Absent from the TV archives, these stories survive only as soundtrack recordings. Now remastered, with additional linking narration, you can enjoy them once again: plus bonus interviews with Anneke Wills and Frazer Hines, and PDF files of the original scripts.

The Macra Terror (First broadcast March–April 1967): The TARDIS visits a human colony that appears to be one big holiday camp, but has in fact been infiltrated and taken over by a race of giant crab-like creatures—the Macra.

The Faceless Ones (First broadcast April–May 1967): The TARDIS makes a hazardous return to 1960s Earth, materializing on a runway at Gatwick Airport! The Doctor realizes that all is not well when Polly witnesses a murder, and then both she and Ben vanish....

The Evil of the Daleks (First broadcast May–July 1967): The TARDIS has been stolen by antiques dealer Edward Waterfield, who lures the Doctor and Jamie into an elaborate trap set by the most deadly race in the universe: The Daleks.

The Abominable Snowmen (First broadcast September–November 1967): The TARDIS materializes in the snowy Himalayas in 1935 and the Doctor makes a return visit to the nearby Detsen monastery—only to find it under attack, apparently from the Yeti...

The Ice Warriors (First broadcast November–December 1967): The TARDIS crew materialize in an England of the future to find Earth in the grip of a new Ice Age—and under threat from a new menace in the form of the Ice Warriors...

PLUS: Linking narration by Anneke Wills and Frazer Hines (includes brand new narration for The Macra Terror), bonus interviews with Anneke Wills and Frazer Hines, and high-quality scans, presented as PDF files, of the original BBC TV camera scripts.
